PMC fact fenestria

PMC have been refining the art of the transmission line loudspeaker for 30 years now and with the fact fenestria they have achieved something that few loudspeaker makers have matched. Which is that they don't sound like loudspeakers and really do disappear to let the music inhabit the room with all the life and presence of the real thing. It's like having your hearing upgraded, there is so much going on in familiar recordings, and what's more those recordings sound better than they ever did. Those recordings sound completely different to one another as well and that's a good sign. A remarkable tour de force, if you have the space and the money it would be foolish not to try them.
